WHEN GOD COMES TO BREAKFAST, YOU DON'T BURN THE TOAST

BY GARY APPLE

Director: Dan Toon

Assistant Director: Carol Stenger

CAST

Beatrice..... Gladys Wingate
Harry..... George Stockelman
God..... Linda Boland

This play is centered around a middle-aged couple who receive a breakfast visit from God. The couple, a little slow in mental ability, oversleep for the appointment and are caught totally unprepared for the event. The wife never quite gets things together and embarrasses her husband continually in front of God. The husband brings his "Archie Bunker" - type humor to an already strange situation. God has to get across a message while putting up with the antics of Bea and Harry.

HEAVEN ONLY KNOWS is a celestial comedy in one act. Along with all of the fun, there is also a very important message we sometimes tend to ignore:

There is some good in all of us . . . If only we would look . . .
And try to skip the pages that . . . Are faded in our book.

Based on a true story about a horse named Ohio whose death was a lesson in learning to accept the loss of something or someone close to us. The four characters in the play deal with death differently and touchingly reveal how this farm family accepts the loss of Ohio.
